2.1.5 Career Opportunities

Plenty of jobs available in government organization and private organizations / firms and a lot of opportunities to start once self-business firm.

2.2 Department of Civil Engineering

2.2.1 The Department

Civil Engineering is the process of directing and controlling natural resources for the use and benefit of humankind through the construction of various structures. It applies engineering practices to the planning and designing, construction, operation, and maintenance of structures such as buildings, roads, bridges, railways, industries, airports, irrigation schemes, docks, harbors, dams, flood control systems, water supply, sewerage disposal schemes, etc. Thus, civil engineering is the largest and broadest discipline of engineering.

The Department of Civil Engineering is the biggest department of the University in terms of infrastructure, student enrollment, and faculty. It provides essential and advanced engineering education according to the requirements of the field. All the classrooms of the department are equipped with audio-visual facilities, and the laboratories have the latest equipment and tools. Highly experienced faculty and technical staff are available to supervise the laboratories.

The Department of Civil Engineering has successfully adopted an Outcome Based Education (OBE) system to meet the criteria of the Pakistan Engineering Council (PEC) as per the Washington Accord. All the class tests, class and field assignments, and semester exams are assessed based on specific course learning objectives associated with each course.

The designed curriculum covers a wide range of various sub-disciplines of the department, including Structural Engineering, Concrete Technology, Geotechnical Engineering, Foundation Engineering and Design, Irrigation and Drainage Engineering, Transportation Engineering, Environmental Engineering, Construction Engineering, Construction Project Management, etc. The courses fulfill the present demand of the construction industry as they are designed by involving industrial experts. Various subjects require tutorials and laboratory work, for which adequate facilities and equipment are available.

The student-centric approach of the department focuses on outcomes from individual students by the end of the course. Final year students also explore various specialization fields through the Final Year Project assigned to them. The Final Year Projects may be specific to a particular branch of Civil Engineering, such as Structural Engineering, Geotechnical Engineering, Irrigation Engineering, Highway Engineering, Construction Management, and Environmental Engineering, etc.

Additionally, students go on field visits to Civil Engineering projects, such as water distribution structures, bridge and building structures, geotechnical works, etc. During the summer vacations, students are involved in various Civil Engineering projects in the form of internships in organizations such as WAPDA, NESPAK, NHA, Works and Services Department, Irrigation Department, etc. These internships help them gain practical engineering knowledge. The Survey Camp is conducted, which consists of surveying activities such as leveling, traversing, and detailing, and also introduces the usage of the latest technologies of surveying tools in civil engineering projects.

The Department of Civil Engineering has a well-organized student-based society named Mehran University Civil Engineers' Society (MUCES). The society is actively engaged in conducting several curriculum and extracurricular activities, such as seminars, workshops, training, short courses, sports events, debates, competitions, etc.

The Department of Civil Engineering also offers various postgraduate degrees such as Master of Engineering (M.E.) and Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in the following fields:

1. Civil Engineering
2. Structural Engineering
3. Geotechnical and Highways Engineering
4. Construction Management

Vision of the Department:

The vision of the Department of Civil Engineering is to become an institution that provides state-of-the-art education to aspiring civil engineering graduates and to evolve as a research-based solution provider to the civil engineering industry.

Mission of the Program:

The undergraduate program of the Department of Civil Engineering aims to develop highly competent professionals, preparing them for entry-level positions in civil engineering, further study in graduate school, lifelong learning, and societal leadership. This is achieved by providing a dynamic learning environment that emphasizes problem-solving skills, teamwork, communication, and leadership skills.

Program Educational Objectives (PEOs):

- i. Solve civil engineering problems faced by the industry by utilizing their theoretical, technical, and professional knowledge.
- ii. Function in team-oriented activities considering the societal, environmental, and economic impacts.
- iii. Continue professional growth through ethical, moral, and learning attitude.

3.1.5 Career Opportunities

Biomedical engineering involves the application of engineering techniques and principles to solve problems in medicine, healthcare, and biology. It is a broad and multidisciplinary field that encompasses various industries, including pharmaceuticals, genetics, diagnostics, surgery, and rehabilitation. We aim to produce engineers who can serve as computational medicine designers, prosthetic device designers, biomedical equipment designers, maintenance engineers, sales managers, after-sale service managers, telemedicine solution designers, and researchers.

Our graduates find fulfilling roles in state-of-the-art diagnostic centers, hospitals, telemedicine centers, biomedical equipment manufacturers and distributors, drug manufacturers, software development houses, the automobile industry, research laboratories, and research institutions. Additionally, biomedical engineers play vital roles in regulatory authorities such as the Drug Regulatory Authority of Pakistan and the Pakistan Quality Standards Organization.

The demand for biomedical engineers is growing, both in Pakistan and abroad. Modern hospitals, pharmaceutical companies, biomedical device manufacturers and vendors, diagnostic research laboratories, government agencies, automobile industry, and software development companies hire biomedical engineers. They are sought after to manage hospitals, contribute to the development and utilization of innovative instruments for disease diagnosis and treatment, and restore independence and functionality to patients.

Our graduates have secured positions at esteemed national and international organizations, including the Pakistan Atomic Energy Commission, National Specialty Alloys Inc. (USA), Siemens, Institute of Chemistry (Academia Sinica, Taiwan), Almosawiq Al-Arabia SA, Al-Sharq Hospital, Fujairah Hospital Dubai, Al-Noor Hospital Bahrain, Austin Health Group (Australia), and many others.

Computer Systems Engineering is a discipline that integrates the fields of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science to develop computer systems. Computer Engineers receive training in Electronic Engineering, Software Design, and Hardware-Software integration, rather than solely focusing on Software Engineering or Electronic Engineering. They are involved in both hardware and software aspects of computing, ranging from circuit design for microprocessors, personal computers, and supercomputers to the development of communication systems and networks. This field of engineering not only focuses on understanding how computer systems work, but also on their integration into larger contexts.

Typical tasks performed by Computer Engineers include writing software and firmware for embedded microcontrollers, designing analog sensors, creating mixed signal circuit boards, and developing operating systems. They are well-suited for robotics research, which heavily relies on using digital systems to control and monitor electrical components such as motors, communication systems, and wireless sensors. With the increasing demand for engineers who can design hardware, software, firmware, and manage various computer, information, and management systems used in industries, the department offers carefully designed multidisciplinary courses and degree programs.

The Department of Computer Systems Engineering is dedicated to fully embracing and implementing the outcome-based education (OBE) system in its educational practices. It leaves no stone unturned in its efforts to ensure the practical application of this education system.

Vision of the Department

To lead in computing education for a smart, secure, and sustainable future.

Mission of the Program

The mission of the department of Computer Systems Engineering is to impart world class education to computer engineers, enabling them to become successful in their professional career and lifelong learning by exhibiting moral and ethical values, thereby becoming a useful part of the society and contributing positively to the socio-economic growth of the country.

Program Educational Objectives (PEOs)

The program educational objectives (PEOs) are prepared by the OBE implementation committee for outcome-based education implementation and are approved through the Board of Studies, Board of Faculty and Academic Council. The PEOs are prepared on the basis of stakeholders' needs and linked with twelve program learning outcomes. Three PEOs have been finalized after thorough deliberation and comprehensive meetings.

4.6 Department of Mining Engineering

4.6.1 The Department

Pakistan is blessed with a variety of mineral resources, including iron, copper, gold, bauxite, granite, marble, limestone, dolomite, china clay (kaolin), bentonite, chalk, coal, gravel, calcite, gypsum, laterite, silica sand, sandstone, phosphate rock, and rare earth minerals.

These mineral resources play a crucial role in the modern industrial era, as they are used in the production of various products such as iron, steel, copper, gold, nickel, aluminum, coal, coke, cement, ceramics, glass, salt, chalk, precious stones, marble, and granite. The mineral sector significantly contributes to the economic growth of both developing and developed countries. Clean coal technology utilizes coal for electricity production, and the brick kiln industry relies on lignite coal. Iron ore is a vital ingredient in the iron and steel industries, while limestone is essential in the cement industry. Copper is used for the production of electric wires, electronics, and refrigeration pipes. Gold and precious stones find their application in jewelry, and rare earth minerals are utilized as catalysts and alloys. Phosphate rock is a key component in the production of fertilizers, while kaolin is extensively used in the ceramic industry. Silica sand is melted to create various types of glass.

Mining Engineering focuses on the extraction of coal, metallic ores, and non-metallic minerals from the earth. Mining engineers acquire the skills to evaluate the commercial aspects of mining projects, extract minerals and ores from mining areas, implement mineral processing techniques to enhance the quality of mineral products, and sell these products to modern industries.

The Department of Mining Engineering offers Bachelor of Engineering (B.E.), Master of Engineering (M.E.), and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degrees in Mining Engineering. The carefully designed curriculum for Mining Engineering provides comprehensive theoretical knowledge, practical experience, internships, health and safety courses, and the development of academic, technical, and professional skills to compete with graduates on a national and international level.

The Department of Mining Engineering actively engages in various projects of national and strategic importance related to coal mining, coal gasification, and mineral processing, as well as environmental aspects of mining activities. The department has established strong academic and research collaborations with prestigious institutions such as the University of Nottingham in the UK, Montan University in Leoben, Austria, Hacettepe University in Turkey, and China University of Mining and Technology in Xuzhou, China.

5.3 Bachelor of Studies in English (BSE)

5.3.1 The Directorate (Directorate of English Language Development Center)

In the year 1988, the English Language Development Centre was established in collaboration with the British Council and the University Grant's Commission (Presently the Higher Education Commission of Pakistan) at Mehran University Jamshoro. This Centre was initially run by a British Director Prof. Brian Bamber. The major aim of this centre was to help students and faculty to improve their English in order to fully understand engineering courses taught in English. Later, under expansion phase, ELDC was relocated to its new state of the art building at MUET Jamshoro. Acknowledging performance of the Centre, ELDC was included amongst 5 shortlisted institutions in public universities of Pakistan considered by English Language Teaching Reforms Project (ELTR) of HEC Pakistan for the establishment of National Centre for English Language Teaching and Research. Later, the ELTR Project of the HEC of Pakistan established the state-of-the-art Self-Access Center at the ELDC, Mehran, UET, Jamshoro which is considered as the first in province Sindh a hub of teachers' training in the province. The SAC offers training on Computer Assisted Language Learning and Internet based learning.

In 2014, CELL witnessed further expansions in the degree programs. Catering to the needs of the teacher community, ELDC started MS program in field of Linguistics which is recognized by HEC of Pakistan. In 2019, ELDC launched its first-ever undergraduate program BS English also. In March 2019, ELDC in collaboration with Higher Education Commission of Pakistan organized its first international conference on Challenges & Innovations in 21st century (ICELL'19) at Mehran University of Engineering & Technology, Jamshoro. This conference was attended by international and national scholars of eminence such as David Crystal.

Besides, CELL has launched an international research journal in Language and Linguistics to promote research culture and engage the ELT community in research dialogue. Furthermore, CELL also operates an active society of Language and Literature which works to groom the intellectual and literary sensibilities of its alumni-MS and BS. Besides offering degree awarding programs in English and English Language courses, in 2022 CELL has established a 'Creative Learning Space' within its premises. The CLS offers seminars and one-to-one session to CELL BS and MS students on career counselling, and other dimensions of intellectual and emotional growth of a student.

Mission of the Program

To prepare qualified human resource in the field of English linguistics for socio-economic development of the country and engage the learners in a constructive dialogue on linguistic and literary issues and developments nationally and internationally.

Objectives of the Program:

- To Assist BS English students, understand core concepts of linguistics & Literature.
- The BS English program aims to equip students with an understanding of key issues and research finding in methodology, theory and analysis, and the underlying values and principles of the field, and with the skills to make a significant professional contribution to the field
- To teach technical writing as to give them academic and professional edge in their various composition challenges of their field.
- To arrange various co-curricular activities as to provide the students with ample opportunities to grow dynamically.
- To help the students learn effective communication by helping them develop both written and oral skills of communication

5.4 Bachelor of Science in Computer Science (BSCS)

5.4.1 The Department

Computer Science is a discipline that integrates the study of Computers & Computational Systems. Principle areas of study within computer science includes artificial intelligence, computer systems & networks, security, database systems, human computer interaction, vision & graphics, numerical analysis, programing languages, software engineering and theory of computing.

The problems that computer scientists encounter range from the abstract determining what problems can be solved with computers and the complexity of the algorithms that solve them to the tangible designing applications that perform well on hand-held devices that are easy to use that uphold security measures.

Given the rapid rate of change within technology, computer system engineers need to have a thirst for learning to keep up with the latest developments. Computer science majors must also be curious about the world around them since programs and systems are applied to every possible area of real life and its betterment.

The Department of Computer Science is leaving no stone unturned to achieve its transformation to practice in true spirit the education system based on outcome-based education (OBE) system.

Vision of the Department

Build a strong research and teaching environment that responds swiftly to the challenges of the current era.

Mission of the Department

To produce computer science graduates to design and develop quality software solutions, be able to work successfully within challenging environments and will be good professionals.

Program Educational Objectives (PEOs)

The program educational objectives (PEOs) were prepared by the OBE implementation committee for outcome-based education implementation and approved through the Board of Studies, Board of Faculty and Academic Council. The PEOs were prepared on the basis of stakeholders' needs and linked with ten program learning outcomes. The PEOs has been published on official webpage of the department at Mehran University website and has been displayed at various notice boards of the department. The PEOs of Bachelor of Computer Science describe that our graduates, 3-5 years after graduation, should be able to:

1. To produce graduates who performs professional based on the acquired computer engineering knowledge and analytical skills with continual improvement.
2. To produce graduates who ensures rationalism and ethics in a multicultural, diversified environment.

8.8.5 Career Opportunities

A Software Engineer can find lucrative jobs in well-reputed private and public sector organizations such as PTCL, K-Electric, Fertilizer Industry, Petrochemical sector, CAA, WAPDA, Pharmaceutical, Research Organizations, Mobile Operators, Software Houses, CAA, PSO, PPL, Telecom Sectors and various other national and multinational organizations. The employers of Software Engineers cover startup companies to established industry leaders.

Due to the emerging use of the internet, e-mail, communications systems, firms from electronics to engineering as they are traditionally associated with unrelated disciplines, which in turn, allows the software engineers to hire more and more in engineering firms specializing in building bridges and power plants. For example, software engineers are designated in designing and developing advanced geographic data systems and automated drafting systems. Communication industries also require software engineers, which indeed help the personal communications market as well. The major communications companies have many job opportunities for both software engineers and computer systems engineers. A growing number of Software Engineers are also employed on a temporary or contract basis (with many being self-employed) who work on their own as consultants. Some of these consultants work for firms that specialize in the development and maintenance of Web sites and intranets of client companies.

A Software Engineering Degree will also open doors for careers in Research, Software Development, and Business analysis with companies such as Microsoft, Oracle, Systems Limited, Hewlett Packard Enterprise, and IBM.

By getting a degree in Software Engineering, graduates can work in any number of fields creating Video Games, developing Internet Applications, running Computer Networks, or implementing Computer Security measures for an organization.

Career opportunities are not limited to technology. The problem-solving, innovative, and personal skills you learn in this course will be sought after in many organizations.

Call for admissions is advertised in the prominent newspapers of national and regional repute as well as on the University website muet.edu.pk. The candidates who intend to apply for admission must follow the guidelines mentioned on the Directorate of Admissions website admissions.muet.edu.pk. A valid email address is mandatory to complete the registration process. The candidates are required to deposit the admission processing fee in any branch of Habib Bank Ltd. The candidates have to upload the scanned copies of all the required documents and paid copy of bank challan as indicated. The candidates have to download their admit slips for pre-admission test, which will be uploaded by the Admission Office after verifying their application form and processing fee. The candidates have to print their admit slips and bring them on the day of pre-admission test along with original CNIC/B-Form. The appearance/passing in the pre-admission test does not mean the candidate is eligible for admission. The eligibility of candidate for admission is decided by the admission office of the University after scrutinizing the documents provided by the candidates. The eligibility criteria for admission are given in Clause 9.2. Since the admission form is a legal document, any wrong information provided therein or tampering it in any other way is illegal and may result in rejection of the form out rightly.

9.4 Pre-Admission Test

In accordance with the policies adopted by the Federal as well as Provincial Governments, all the eligible candidates applying under all categories except nominees are required to appear in the Pre-Admission Test organized by the University. Candidates having secured less than 40% marks in the Pre-Admission Test shall not be eligible for the admission in this University.

The final merit list of the candidates for each district/category is prepared by calculating their overall merit, based on the marks obtained in each of the following examinations, multiplying them with the respective weightage and adding the result to calculate the “Composite Percentage Number” (CPN) as described below:

Sr. No.	Percentage of Marks in	Multiplying Weightage
A.	Secondary School Certificate (Science Group) - Matriculation: Higher Secondary School Certificate (HSC-I)/Equivalent:	0.10
B.	(Pre-Engineering/Pre-Medical/General Science/Humanities/Commerce Groups or equivalent with adjusted marks ¹)/DAE.	0.30
C.	Pre-admission Test Score:	0.60

For example, if a candidate has secured 70% marks in SSC, 60% marks in HSC-I and 50% marks in Pre-Admission Test; his/her CPN² would be calculated as under:

$$\underline{(70 \times 0.1)} + \underline{(60 \times 0.3)} + \underline{(50 \times 0.6)} = \underline{7+18+30} = \underline{\underline{55.0000}}$$

- 1 Adjusted marks mean marks secured in HSC examination plus additional marks if any, as defined in Clause 9.11, or minus marks to be deducted as defined in Clause 9.12.
- 2 The CPN of the candidates on the merit list may be calculated with four digits after decimal point. The following steps may be taken, in case of tie of CPN even after exercising the above action:
 - i. The candidate having higher pre-admission test marks will be higher in merit.
 - ii. The candidate having higher HSC-I marks will be higher in merit.
 - iii. The candidate having higher SSC marks will be higher in merit.
 - iv. The candidate having higher HSC Math-I/Biology-I marks will be higher in merit.

Note: All local/foreign nominees are required to submit the result of HEC, SAT, UETs, NUST, officially approved National/International Organization or other International-Level Test which they have passed for their admission purpose or appear in the Pre-Admission Test of this University and clear the same. In case they do not clear the test, they would not be considered for admission at this University.
